Hall Believes Investors On This Island Will Secure Majority Of Stock Of Stork Savings Company-Shrewd Investors Are Interested

Maui stockholders may soon control a mainland corporation with the home. offices located on this island, according to Charles B. Hall, who has been on this island for sometime interest ing investors in the Stork System of Savings and Supply Company. The company is now controlled with all its

Several months ago Hall secured an optition on the company after he had thoroughly investigated the company and its business operations, for which purpose he made a trip back to Colorado. After securins a six months' op-tion, he then returned to Hawaii and shortly afterward came here with the intention of placing as much of the stock as possible. The sale price of the company is $125,000 and it is the plan to reorganize the company and incorporate it under the laws of Hawaii with a capital of $200,000. The stock is being sold at one dollar a share, the par value.

As assurance of his intention to make the purchase, Hall has deposited with the Bank of Hawali the sum of $1250 as a deposit of good faith. The stock of the Co'orado corporation is held in escrow in a Fort Collins bank and when the required amount is subscribed here, the Bank of Hawaii will conclude the transaction by sending for the stock. The difference between the purchase price and th intended capitalization of the new company, the sum of $75,000, will become treasury stock to be used as become treasury stock to be used as the stockholders see fit.

The business of the Stork Savings system is a novel advertising scheme which provides a bank account for the education of a child after becoming 15 years of age. Briefly, the system used is to interest a bank and a number of non-competative stores in the Stork plan. The merchants agree to give a small sum for every new cus-tomer brought them and five per cent discount on all purchases made by a family which is enrolled as a Stork Savings customer. The discount is given in the form of scrip which can be deposited as money at the bank. All deposits cannot be withdrawn until the child has reached the age of 15. To get these deposits the bank agrees to give each child enrolled one dollar as an initial deposit, besides the usual savings interest

It is in the initial fees the merchants give to the company in which its returns are secured. It is said that the system is now being used with success in seventeen cities on the mainland and that the company's field can be broaded to take in every city in the United States.

Hall feels confident that the controlling interest in the company will be purchased by Maui investors. He says that some of the shrewdest investors on the island have subscribed taken there for interrment this mornfor stock. If the controlling interest is ing. Executive Committee Reach This De- Japanese Alleges That He Was Damcision After Considering All Other Locations and After Making Personally Inspection Of 10-Acre Lot

The entire Maui County Fair is to held on the Walluku baseball grounds, according to an unanimous agreement reached by the fair executie committee whichheld a meetving in the Town Hall on last Monday afternoon. But it was not unanimoous de cision until the question of space and copyrights by Fort Collins, Co'orado, housing for the exhibits had been thoroughtly thrashed out and the executive committee had made a tour of inspection to the grounds.

J. J. Walsh of the finance committee had been urging for some time that the county fair be assembled and exhibited in one locality, and not scattered about Wailuku in half dozen different buildings. His principal reason for wanting the fair held collectively was that then it would be possible to secure more admittances fee, and be still more attractive.

At first members of the committee opposed holding the fair at the base ball grounds because they did not think that it was large enough. The reply to this was that the Kuhio wharf in Hilo, where the Hawaii fair is to be held, is not one-third as large as the Wailuku diamond.

When the committeemen were once on the grounds and saw that there were about ten acres of land, well protected by hedge and with two approches, all opposition to Mr. Walsh's plan faded away.

Death Calls Wife Of Maui News Workman

Death suddenly saddened the little circle of Maui News workers yester day morning when it was learned that their well-liked fellow workman, Ka-mai Kaashue, head book binder for the News, had lost his wife . Less than half an hour before the news reached the office, smiles of congratulation had been flashed to him as he started to depart for his home, for it had been whispered about that he was going home to greet a new baby which had arrived during the morning. Then came the sad news that Mrs. Kaaihue had been unable to withstand her or-deal and that shortly after her husband reached home she had succumbed, before medical assistance could render aid.

Mrs. Kaaihue was a native of Lahaina and thirty-four years of age. She was we'l known and well liked by all her acquaintances. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Koko of Lahaina and her body was

BANKERS AID CATTLE INDUSRY The part that banks can play in promoting the local cattle industry is illustrated by the action taken recently by a group of southern bankers. A few farmers in Gibson County, Tenn., started a movement looking toward diversification of crops by raising less cotton and increasing the number and quality of cattle. The movement was encouraged by the beef-catt'e exten-sion agents of the State college and the United States Department of Agri-culture. All the banks in the county grew interested, and as soon the group was ready to bring in a car of of the mainland to forbid the display pure-bred cattle the bankers agreed to of firearms, dirks, knives and other aged To His Amount When He Was Sentenced In District Court -Suit Filed In Honolulu

Through his attorney, Eugene Murphy, K. Akatsuka has filed suit for $10,000 damages against District Judge W. A. McKay, The suit is based on the charge that Judge McKay, "by rea son of wanton, malicious and corrupt actions" denied the plaintiff a trial on the charge of having received stolen goods. The quotation is from the plaintiff's allegations which were filed in the first circuit court last week. On May 7th of this year Paschoal Gomes, a police officer, swore to complaint al'eging that Akatsuka had received stolen goods which were taken from the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company. Upon this charge the plaintiff in the damage suit was duly arraigned before Judge McKay After the complaint was interpreted to Akatsuka, who is a Japanese, he affirms that he entered a plea of "not guilty.

The damage suit petition states that thereupon and after the plaintiff had pleaded "not guilty" he was sentenced by Judge McKay, without any trial, to pay a fine of $50 and to be confined in the county jail for ten Akatsuka appealed from the district court judgement to the circuit court and the case was remanded to the district court.

The damage suit petition avers that in order to try to defeat the plaintiff in securing trial by jury, the district court records were altered to show that Akatsuka had entered a plea of Delegates to the Fifth Civic Convention from Maui are not to go as a "nonendescript crew," as one of the delegates said the Maui men had al-ways gone before. This decision was reached at a meeting of the delegates held last Wednesday. A uniform con-sisting of a white hat, a white shirt, white trousers, white shoes and a tie and sash of the Maui colors—black and yellow—is to be worn by all. Besides the catchy uniform, the delegation is to have two or three songs with which to entertain the other delegates. The delegates are to meet tonight at D. H. Cases' home to practise the songs. Besides the twelve whose names were published last week, T. B. Cameron and J. Patterson have been given credentials.

Flames Destroy

The Bay View home at Kalaupapa, Molokai settlement, was destroyed completely by fire last Saturday afternoon and evening. All inmates, eighty in number, were removed without one being injured. In the destruction of the house all furniture and personal belongings of the inmates were lost. No cause of the fire is known.

By hard work the imates of the set tlement succeeded in preventing the spread of the fire to the new Bay View ome now being built near the old. Three of the buildings of this home, which will be on the cottage plan, can e used now.

The home was used for the housing of the old, blind and other helpless patients unable to care for themselves. It was a one-story building and was about twelve or fourteen years old. having been constructed by the Terri-
